

Gallagher & Kennedy

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

When your business operates in a regulated industry, there are important and often complex issues required to achieve and maintain compliance. The administrative law team at Gallagher & Kennedy partners with you to creatively position your business to take advantage of unique opportunities that emerge within regulated industries. Our legal knowledge and experience in the regulatory process helps you establish the necessary protections for regulated businesses.

At Gallagher & Kennedy, we guide our clients through the myriad steps and processes that are needed to satisfy regulatory requirements of primarily state regulatory bodies. We are committed to understanding the specific challenges of your business and to create solutions that meet your objectives. Often, we are working with you to prevent regulatory actions, but our experience will guide you in developing strategic responses to adverse regulatory actions should the need arise.

Our regulated clients operate in diverse industries, and we have represented the interests of corporations, trade associations, non-profit organizations and individuals before federal, state and local governing bodies and governmental agencies. Our Governmental Affairs & Lobbying experts are often engaged to collaborate when certain matters require their specialized expertise.
