AIR QUALITY

For over 30 years, Gallagher & Kennedy attorneys have helped clients with the complex demands of federal, state, and county air quality permits, regulations, and enforcement actions. We have vast experience with Title V and other major source permit programs and have advised or defended clients in Arizona, Colorado, Illinois, Nevada, New Mexico, Texas, Utah, and other states, including tribal lands in several areas.

In Arizona, our attorneys have successfully litigated to overturn improper state and county air regulations and excessive permit requirements. We also serve as national counsel to a chemical manufacturing trade association in Washington D.C., participating in federal rulemaking and litigation. In addition, our air quality attorneys provide leadership to Arizona and New Mexico trade organizations and businesses on air quality rulemaking and legislative matters.
