CIVIL DEFENSE LITIGATION

Gallagher & Kennedy's attorneys have decades of experience in a broad array of civil defense matters. Our approach always begins with the goal of understanding our client's objectives. Then, with a clear understanding, we proceed to assist our clients in assessing and managing risk to achieve the most cost-effective outcome that meets their goals. We provide clients with sound, strategic counsel and preparation whether in anticipation of arbitration proceedings or trial.

Gallagher & Kennedy's civil defense attorneys have served as counsel on complex, high exposure matters for both self-insureds and those with insurance coverage. We work collaboratively, as needed, with legal experts in other Gallagher & Kennedy practices to address the multidimensional issues that often arise from the complexities of civil defense matters.

With years of experience, our attorneys have represented clients within many industries, covering diverse matters which include:

- Aviation
- Construction defects
- Directors and officers
- Employment
- Environmental
- Health care
- Medical malpractice defense
- Premises liability
- Product liability
- Property damage claims
- Professional liability
- Transportation and trucks

Our exceptional team of litigation attorneys work with businesses in diverse industries, including professional sports teams, professional athletes, universities, manufacturers, Fortune 500 companies, environmental and construction companies, and many others.
