INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY LITIGATION

Gallagher & Kennedy intellectual property litigation attorneys are experienced in both enforcing intellectual property rights and defending clients against enforcement actions in all areas of intellectual property in courts throughout the country, including complex trademark disputes, copyright infringement actions, trade secret misappropriation, and false advertising cases.

Our attorneys have substantial experience with patent infringement litigation, including the defense of patent cases brought by non-practicing entities, wherein we have successfully worked with joint defense groups to help manage the cost of defense.
