CULTURAL AND NATURAL RESOURCES PROTECTION

Gallagher & Kennedy is highly qualified to advise tribal clients on the many challenges of cultural and natural resources protection. Our attorneys are equipped to address a tribe's immediate needs as well as develop effective long-term strategies for the protection of cultural and natural resources for future generations. Specifically, our attorneys can assist tribal clients with issues regarding:

- Natural resource management and preservation
- Regulatory requirements necessary to protect tribal air, water and lands, as well as the development of programs to protect these important resources
- Water and mineral development
- Protection of cultural, historic and sacred sites
- Development and operation of tribal utility organizations
- Interfacing with public utilities, including negotiating easements between tribes and the utilities
- Power purchase agreements
