WATER QUALITY

Gallagher & Kennedy attorneys have substantial background and expertise with respect to water quality laws and implementing regulations. We are highly equipped to handle any type of water quality matter, whether it originates from federal, state or local jurisdictions.

Since the inception of modern water quality laws, we have lobbied on behalf of our clients on both a federal and state level to ensure that water quality laws are adopted and then implemented in a cost-effective and scientifically-defensible manner. We have assisted numerous clients in obtaining necessary water quality permits in a timely manner to authorize new or expanded mining and industrial operations.
